Professional and Ethical Behavior

UAF School of Education students are expected to adhere to the Alaska Code of Ethics for the Education Profession. The standards adopted by the Professional Teaching Practices Commission, govern all members of the teaching profession. A violation of the code of ethics and professional teaching standards are grounds for revocation or suspension of one's teaching license.

COLLABORATIVE STUDENT TEACHING Guidelines

As a component of the yearlong internship, each intern is expected to fulfill the requirements for student teaching in order to be licensed to teach. Student teaching is scheduled to span both fall and spring semesters, thus providing the intern with opportunities to implement, reflect, revise, and refine effective teaching practices throughout the year. During fall semester, interns are required to work with the mentor teacher in a collaborative student teaching experience. Interns are expected to work with the mentor teacher in a collaborative student teaching experience. Interns are expected to
